Proto IT Wiki

This wiki will become the central hub for all information concerning the IT landscape for Study Association Proto. For information over the association itself, please visit the website itself. If you want instructions on how to fork the source code on GitHub and get it running, please do read the readme.

This is a public wiki in the hopes that it will help members of the association, and current and future members of the Have You Tried Turning It Off And On Again committee, understand the inner workings of the ICT landscape. It can be used both in order to gain some insight in the ICT landscape if you are interested, or as reference material if you're trying to carry out committee duties.

Only members of the Have You Tried Turning It Off And On Again committee can edit pages in this section.
